Hi Graham,

We received a question regarding arranged employment points for an applicant who is currently working remotely in their home country for the same employer they were originally working for in Canada and on the same work permit (they went home because of the pandemic).

Based on the information provided in the email, we believe that the applicant however Tracy suggested I reach out to you to get your opinion.

Please let me know if you'd prefer a chat and I could set up a time.

Thank you in advance,

Hi All,

I received a similar question last month as we responded with this:

Question:

If an applicant travelled outside of Canada for a business trip for his/her job in Canada, and got stuck abroad for a long period of time due to travel ban given COVID-19, are we still allowed to count those days where the applicant got stuck
